SPELLING

VōWac® Spelling program teaches children how to become spellers instead of teaching them how to spell certain words. Once they acquire the skills to spell unfamiliar words, they become spellers for a lifetime.

VōWac®'s spelling methods teach children the mechanics and construction of the written word; how and why a word is pronounced and spelled a certain way.

VōWac® Spelling uses direct instruction featuring intensive teacher-student interaction with immediate feedback. Structure of the language taught is sequential. The organization of the English language gradually unfolds before the child's eyes. The more a child knows about the language, the better speller he becomes.

Children develop their long-term memory through multi-sensory methods. Games and activities, using manipulative articles, aid students who learn best by doing.

Included are fun activities designed to improve children's auditory and visual memories. VōWac® implements a Modified Fernald method for memorizing the spellings of non-phonetic words.
